

Given the extensive theoretical background that the course has covered, create reflection topics of your choosing for the next three readings and films that address the issues of violence and justice.